Eleven Arrests Over Holiday

Arrested for Reckless Driving and Hitting Man—Another for Driving Horse While Intoxicated—Others for Various Offenses.

The police department spent a busy week end, making ten arrests, while one arrest was made by a citizen. The charges on which arrests were made ranged from reckless driving to public intoxication.

William J. Marks of 766 Broadway was arrested Sunday by Etlings, a citizen, on a charge of reckless driving on Abel street when Edward Kelly, 35 years old, was struck by the car as he was about to enter the gate to his yard at 451 Abel street. Kelly was cut about the face and bruised about the body. His morning Marks, through his attorney, Walter Miller, entered a plea of not guilty and the hearing was adjourned for a week.

Traffic Violations.

Harry L. Miller of Tarrytown and George V. Spink of Utica, were arrested by Officer Britz on a charge of driving to the left of the traffic standard at Broadway and Railroad avenue Miller forfeited $10 cash and Spink $5 cash bail for failure to answer to the charge in court.

Louis P. Michaud of New York was arrested by Officer Bowser for failure to stop when signaled. He forfeited $10 cash bail.

Gordon Got 15 Days.

Abel Gordon of West Strand was sentenced to fifteen days in the county jail by Judge Schirck. Gordon was arrested for public intoxication by Officer Bass. He was driving a horse and wagon on Broadway. When Officer Bass saw Gordon's condition he placed him under arrest and drove the horse and wagon with his prisoner to police headquarters.

"A Rheumatism Cure."

William F. Gehrt of 97 Stephan street was arrested by Officer Burr who found him breaking dishes in his home on that street. Gehrt claimed to Judge Schirck that he had taken something for his rheumatism. The "something" resulted in his spending the ensuing ten days in the city's gaol at the county jail.

Were Just Drunk.

Harvey Pelen of Poughkeepsie came here to spend the holiday and was found intoxicated on Wall street by Deputy Sheriff Anderson. Harvey was fined $10 on a plea of guilty.

George Deyo of Roseton, arrested by Officer Murphy on Haverbrook avenue on a charge of public intoxication, had his hearing adjourned.

Virgil Sampson, a negro, who was busy cooking for a wedding, was picked up drunk on Haverbrook avenue by Officer Martin. Virgil explained he was working on a farm at Hurley and was sent back here with the warning that if he returned to Kingston within six months he would be sent to the Albany penitentiary.

Delavan's Case Adjourned.

Edward Delavan, arrested at the same time for the same offense, had his hearing adjourned to Tuesday morning and cash bail of $15 was ordered. Judge Schirck informed him that he was adjourning the case until then as a criminal summons had been served on Delavan at the request of some one and there might be a warrant for arrest issued.

Hospital Wants Children's Books

Books for children would be a welcome gift to the Kingston City Hospital. There is a scarcity of reading matter for the little convalescents in the children's ward, and such books will give comfort and pleasure.

Adult ward patients are also appreciative of books, magazines, and newspapers.

During the month of May the following gifts were sent to the hospital:

From Mrs. Winter, Miss Miller and Miss Tappan, Poughkeepsie, a quantity of sewing done at the hospital under her supervision.

Play at Epworth Hall.

The play, "Reckless Near Inn," which was so successfully given recently in the Fair Street Reformed church, will be repeated at Epworth hall of the Clinton Avenue M. E. church Wednesday evening. Tickets may be secured from members of the church or from members of the Epworth League.

Woodstock Town Schools Picnic

The annual picnic and field day of the Woodstock town school was held on Friday, May 23, at the grounds of the Lake Hill school. Although the day was somewhat damp the spirits of those who were present were not affected by the atmosphere. The schools and teachers in attendance were: Zena, Miss Allen; Bearsville, Miss Emerick; Shady, Miss Russell; Lake Hill, Mrs. Reynolds; Willow, Mr. Elmhurst.

The forenoon was taken up with relay races, marching, recitations and other amusements. Professor Bruce Bennett of the New Paltz Normal and Mr. Kale, president of the New Paltz Traction Company, were guests. Mr. Bennett entertained the company with his inimitable stories. Mr. Andrews, the district superintendent, and his wife were also there and joined in the festivities.

In the afternoon a thrilling game of end ball between Bearsville and Lake Hill with Miss Emerick and Mr. Elmhurst as scorekeeper and umpire took place. Bearsville was the winning team. This was followed by a very lively game of newcomb in which the various schools took part. The games ended with a big game of circle stride ball in which everyone joined.

In spite of the weather the day was a great success and the groups left for their respective homes hoping for a larger gathering under fairer skies next year.

No Aid Asked for Polar Explorers

By Telegram to The Freeman.

London, June 1.—That Captain Roald Amundsen and his associate Ager, Lieutenant Lincoln Ellsworth, may have been deceived by the smooth appearance of ice at the North Pole and have landed their aeroplanes in a pit or crevice, was the theory advanced here today by aviators and explorers to explain the eleven days' silence of the expedition that left Spitzbergen eleven days ago for presumably an 18 hour trip to the Pole.

Although offers of aid have been made to the Norwegian government by the United States, France, Italy and individuals, there is as yet no definite move for a relief expedition. Apparently it is the belief of experts that it is too early to think the Amundsen-Ellsworth party needs relief. The opinion is growing, however, that Amundsen is not returning by air, the belief being based on the theory that he was unable to land his planes in such shape that they are available for the return trip.

Get Together Dinner Tonight

Expansion Program of Chamber of Commerce Will Be More Fully Explained by Speakers Well Qualified to Talk on Subject.

The Chamber of Commerce dinner program as announced in Friday's Freeman is one that promises unusual interest.

Tonight Dr. Myron J. Michael will have an opportunity to tell Kingston's citizens more fully what he outlined to a group of business men last Tuesday at which time he was asked to continue his talk because of its interest to Kingston and the interesting way in which he told it.

Alexander C. Dow, president of the Chamber of Commerce of Poughkeepsie, will have a message from that city. Mr. Dow is said to be a real orator and the guests at tonight's affair have something to look forward to.

Judge Fowler who will act as toastmaster needs no introduction to Kingstonians.

Mayor Block and Dr. Day will present their views on a modern Chamber of Commerce and a well arranged musical program will round out the evening.

The fifteen teams are ready to report at 9:30 tomorrow morning at the Chamber whence they will start on their errand of invitation to fellow citizens to take membership in the Chamber.

Word was received this morning from the Rev. R. A. Greenwell, pastor of the Clinton Avenue M. E. Church, that a beefsteak dinner of the Men's Club of that church scheduled for tonight, has been postponed to avoid conflict with the Get Together Dinner of the Chamber of Commerce. About 200 men had planned to attend this affair and its postponement is an encouragement to the Chamber exemplifying as it does a truly cooperative spirit.

Will Investigate Veeder's Death

Family of Naval Lieutenant Believes His Death in Airplane Was Caused by Inhaling Carbon Monoxide Gas.

A naval court of inquiry on Saturday began an investigation into the sudden death of Lieutenant Ten Eyck DeWitt Veeder, Jr., naval aviator, who collapsed Friday at the Naval Air Field at Anacostia, opposite the Washington Navy Yard, just as his plane, in which he had flown from Hampton Roads, Va., came to a standstill.

All the circumstances of the case indicate that the young officer, steeped in service tradition by heredity and experience, clung to life until the last in order to save Richard Barthelmess, a passenger in the machine, who is working on a film dealing with the navy at Annapolis and Norfolk.

Members of Lieutenant Veeder's family reject the theory advanced that he died of heart failure. They are inclined to the view that his death was due to inhaling carbon monoxide gas. The court of inquiry will seek to determine the cause of death. It will not make its report until some time this week.

Lieutenant Veeder was a nephew of Judge Van Vechten Veeder, a brother-in-law of M. E. DeWitt of Hurley. Lieutenant Veeder was the son of the late Commodore Ten Eyck DeWitt Veeder of the navy, who was born in New York and appointed to the Naval Academy from that state. His mother, who was Miss Mary Greene of Savannah, Ga., resided at 1734 P street, Washington.

Lieutenant Veeder was born July 2, 1895, in Virginia, where his maternal grandfather, a resident of Savannah, had a country place. He received an at-large appointment to the Naval Academy.

Marshall, Former Vice President Dies in Hospital

Contracted Severe Cold During Trip To Washington—Death Came Suddenly—Served as Vice-President Eight Years Under Woodrow Wilson.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Washington, June 1.—Thomas Riley Marshall, of Indiana, former vice-president of the United States, died here this morning.

Mr. Marshall was ill at a hotel with a severe cold contracted during a trip to the capital from his home in Indianapolis.

After delivering a number of addresses in Indiana, Marshall came here a week ago today. He suffered a heart attack upon his arrival and has been in bed since.

His condition had improved during the past few days, however, and physicians regarded him as on the way to recovery.

The end came at 9:40 a. m. while the former vice-president was sitting up in bed reading his Bible.

His nurse was in the room when he suddenly fell forward—dead, and Mrs. Marshall was in an adjoining room.

Marshall was 71 years old last March. He was born in North Manchester, Indiana, and was educated in Wabash College.

After practicing law at Columbia City, Ind., for a number of years, Marshall became a power in the Democratic party in his native state and served as governor from 1909 to 1913.

The Democratic convention at Baltimore in 1912 which nominated Woodrow Wilson for president, chose Marshall for second place on the ticket. He served as vice-president during the eight years of the Wilson administration and since March, 1920, has been engaged in lecturing in various parts of the country, while taking no active part in national politics.

High officials of the government and members of congress with whom he was intimately associated during the eight years of the Wilson administration, joined today in expressing profound regret at his sudden death, in paying tribute to his rugged, outspoken character and his service to the nation.

Funeral arrangements had not been completed at noon today, except that Marshall would be buried in the Odd Fellows' Cemetery at Marion, Ind., where his father, mother and adopted son are now buried. Funeral services probably will be held both here and in Marion.

President Coolidge was one of the first in the capital to extend expressions of sympathy to Mrs. Marshall. In a letter to the widow, the president said:

"Just this moment the shocking intelligence has come to me of the death of your distinguished husband, and I hasten to express to you, not only my deep sympathy and condolences, but the real sense of personal loss. Mr. Marshall's long and notable public service, both in Indiana and as vice-president for eight years, has won for him recognition for high character and exceptional ability. Beyond this, and something that he would have prized even more dearly, he had drawn to himself a truly remarkable power of friendship and friendship extending to every part of the nation, and beyond it. His delightful fund of humor illuminated a philosophy of life and affairs that had made for him a unique place among public men. He leaves a place that there is none to occupy. Mrs. Coolidge joins me in my expression of sorrow and sympathy to you and yours in this time of your bereavement."

William Dugan Dies Suddenly

Widely Known Citizen, Active in Business and Civic Affairs, Had Universal Respect of Public—Leader in Movement to Promote City's Welfare.

WILLIAM DUGAN.

William Dugan, insurance agent, with offices in the Corbitt building, 293 Wall street, and one of the most widely known men in Ulster county, died suddenly at his residence, 140 Wall street, Sunday evening about 6:30 o'clock.

Upon entering the home after an automobile ride to West Park with Mrs. Dugan and some friends, he complained of illness and collapsed in the vestibule. Dr. John G. O'Leary was summoned but Mr. Dugan had expired before his arrival. The cause of death was cerebral hemorrhage. He had been in ill health for some time but was able to care for his business which he attended to daily, and on Sunday morning attended Mass at St. Joseph's Church, as was his custom.

His wife, who before marriage, was Frances B. Skene, survives, also three sisters, Mrs. Margaret Leonard of Highland, Mrs. Sarah McMullen of California, Mrs. John Costello, of 116 Wall street, this city, and two brothers, Michael Dugan of Gardiner, and George Dugan of Poughkeepsie.

Mr. Dugan for a number of years was a member of the firm of Costello & Dugan and engaged in the hardware business on Wall street. Previously he had been a clerk in dry goods stores and a traveling salesman for the late Howard Myer, who named a popular brand cigar "Billy Dugan." Mr. Dugan about two years ago Mr. Costello became ill and sold his interest in the hardware business to R. Kenneth Everett, the firm becoming Dugan & Everett. Recently Mr. Dugan sold his interest in the business to Mr. Everett, and two weeks ago took over the insurance business of William F. Abernethy with offices in the Corbitt building, adjoining the court house.

He was a popular citizen with many friends, always taking a great interest in every matter that came up for the welfare of Kingston. He was an active worker in the Chamber of Commerce, at one time a member of the board of directors, and was a charter member of the Rotary Club. He served for some time as a member of the board of police commissioners. He was one of the leading members of Kingston Council, No. 275, Knights of Columbus, a member of the board of governors, and had served as Faithful Navigator, the executive officer of the Fourth Degree Assembly. He was a charter member of Kingston Council, No. 355, United Commercial Travelers, and was a past counselor of the order. A faithful member of St. Joseph's Church, he was active in the work of the church, being a member of the Holy Name Society and of the large choir of the society. He served as an active member of Wilkney Hose Company, and for years had been an honorary member.

Chamber of Commerce Action.

"The sudden death of William J. Dugan is indeed a blow to the community and to the Chamber of Commerce," said President Charles A. Lasher today at the chamber's office. "Kingston is the loser, as we shall feel the loss in many ways. Billy Dugan has been one of our most interested and hard working directors and in the present Expansion Campaign which is to open tonight with the Get-Together Dinner he has been a tireless worker. He was all primed to go and his enthusiasm was really an inspiration to the rest of us in this effort." Mr. Lasher continued.

At a specially called meeting of the Board of Directors of the Chamber this morning the following resolution was passed:

Whereas, it has pleased Providence to remove from our midst our beloved brother, friend and co-worker, William Dugan; and Whereas we wish to testify to his untiring devotion and self-sacrificing labor as a director of this Chamber and to express our sorrow at his loss;

Resolved, that our secretary be ordered to express to his bereaved family the sincere heartfelt sorrow of this board and our lasting appreciation of the splendid loyal service he has rendered the city of Kingston through his work as a public spirited citizen, a Director of the Chamber of Commerce and a co-worker in other organizations for the welfare of the entire community.

Miss Vanderbilt Spurns Nobility

American Heiress Finds Herself Pursued by European Suitors, Many of Prominence—Is Expected to Return to America.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

London, June 1.—Miss Grace Vanderbilt one of America's richest and prettiest young heiresses, has put her foot down quite emphatically and with some show of asperity on a marriage into the nobility, and is to return home to avoid it. It was said today, the scores of rich and poor continental suitors who have been pursuing her.

Miss Vanderbilt is the daughter of Brigadier General Cornelius Vanderbilt, a sister of Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr., and a niece of Mrs. Ogden Goelet, Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney and Countess Saecheny, wife of the Hungarian minister at Washington.

Specifically, it is the Marquis of Donegal to whom Miss Vanderbilt has refused to permit rumors to marry her. Asked for confirmation or denial of the rumor widely published the last few weeks, Miss Vanderbilt tapped her dainty foot in annoyance and said "no, positively not."

Among other reported ardent suitors for her hand were said to be Lord Ashley, who would at the death of his father, become Earl of Shaftsbury. But the most prominent in the list of admirers was said to be Prince George, the youngest son of King George and Queen Mary, described as almost the equal of the Prince of Wales in ballroom grace and as an amateur jazz band player.

Although the Vanderbilts recently moved Brook House in Park Lane, London, for "an indefinite period," it was said today they would return shortly to summer at Newport, R. I.

Governors Favor Defense Day

Willing to Cooperate With Federal Government Although Not Wholly Approving of Armistice Day or Fourth of July.

(Copyright, 1925, by International News Service.)

By Telegram to The Freeman.

New York, June 1.—While not militantly enthusiastic over the idea, most of the governors of the 48 states are willing to cooperate with President Coolidge and the war department in the suggested plan to make July 4 annual "defense day" from a national standpoint.

This was disclosed today in a nation-wide poll of gubernatorial sentiment taken by International News Service.

Many of the governors feel that a day should be set apart each year on which the nation should take stock of its defense situation, when state troops should be mobilized for inspection and survey and the thoughts of the people generally devoted to the preparedness that may never be necessary but which must always be observed.

But not all of them by any means believed that this day should be Armistice Day, as originally proposed by the general staff, nor do they wholeheartedly approve of President Coolidge's alternative suggestion of July 4. Not a few of the state executives, while declaring they would "go along" with the federal government, if July 4 is selected, expressed the view that "a better day could be selected" than either Armistice Day or the Fourth.

Most of the governors contented themselves with merely saying they would cooperate with the federal government, without stating their opinions as to the advisability of the move contemplated in Washington.

Some of the governors were frankly non-committal concerning the whole project, among these being Governor Al Smith of New York, Governor George S. Sizoo of New Jersey, Governor Richardson of California, Governor Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland and Governor Marlin of Florida.

Seek Signers for City Dry Law

Committee Circulates Petition Asking Common Council to Adopt Ordinance for Enforcing Federal Prohibition and to License Soft Drink Places Here.

A large number of citizens, both men and women, are interested in a local ordinance which will regulate and control the liquor traffic in the City of Kingston. A petition to the mayor of the city of Kingston and the common council was circulated Sunday and hundreds of Kingston's citizens signed the same, requesting the passage of a local ordinance, and more than a thousand of these petitions are now in the hands of citizens of Kingston for signers.

The committee in charge have submitted to The Freeman a copy of the petition and respectfully request all interested persons to write immediately the Hon. Morris Block and the common council requesting the passage of such ordinance.

The Chamber of Commerce, the Rotary Club, Ministerial Association, the Kiwanis Club, the Winners Sunday School Class and the Clinton Avenue Methodist Church have recently passed resolutions asking the Common Council to pass the local ordinance.

The petition is as follows:

To the Honorable Morris Block, Mayor of the City of Kingston, N. Y., and to the Honorable Common Council of the City of Kingston, N. Y.:

Whereas, it is believed that the law enforcement officials of the City of Kingston and the County of Ulster have expressed themselves as not being able to enforce in our city and county the proper observance of the Federal Prohibition Laws by reason of the non-existence of state and local laws with respect thereto and

Whereas, the undersigned petitioners, being voters of legal age and residents and citizens of the City of Kingston, N. Y., believe that the good of our community requires the immediate passage of local laws tending toward the proper and more efficient enforcement of the Federal Prohibition Laws.

Therefore, we, the undersigned, do petition and urge the Mayor and Common Council of the City of Kingston to pass a local ordinance similar to local law "No. 6" adopted by the Common Council of the City of Watertown, N. Y., in January, 1925, prohibiting the manufacturing, sale or transportation of intoxicating liquors in violation of the Federal Prohibition laws and to also adopt a soft drink local ordinance requiring that licenses be obtained to permit the sale of soft drinks with proper and adequate penalties for the violation thereof.

Said ordinance should provide that there shall be a free and unobstructed view to the interior of all places where soft drinks are sold, and should further provide for the inspection of the same by local police at any time.

"Keep the lines open" is the creed of the telephone repair men—and they live up to it, often in the face of severe hardships and at great personal sacrifice.

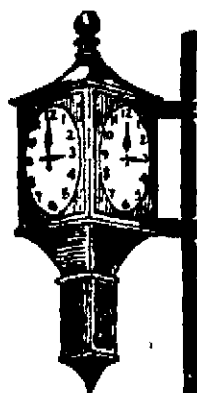

Probably you've seen them at work in your neighborhood and along the highways leading into town. These men are serving you just as faithfully as other telephone folks—though you may know less about their actual duties.

Public servants, they are—men whose job it is to keep your lines open so that you may "talk" to anyone anywhere at will—and so that others may talk with you.

IT'S "heaven" on the back seat if there are Harves on the springs! A saucer dip or "thank-you-mom" won't phase you one bit; car tracks, ruts and chunks are just as smooth as you please because Harve Stabilizers play "Jiu-Jitsu" with the shock at exactly the right moment. They meet and check both shock and recoil and they're working all the time your car is working.

"Wash board" ripples, big bumps, deep holes—all end alike in Harves because they respond instantly. Harves work both ways—they are attached to the point of greatest spring vibration and act with the spring just in proportion to the spring action—in fact, just in proportion to the force of the shock or rebound.

It's a balanced control. If you please, that this simple little device performs on the car spring for the maintenance of easy riding qualities. That's why they are so ideal for use with balloon tires. And the retail price is only $15.00 per set of four.

More Room For Campers

New and Larger Camp Sites in the Adirondacks—Commission Concentrates on Large Sites on Main Highway.

By Telegram to The Freeman

Albany, June 1.—Special efforts are being made by the conservation commission to rush the work it has undertaken in improving and enlarging the public camp sites in the Adirondack region that these may be ready for use by the public when the tourist season opens. Following the policy adopted by the commission of concentration on certain of the larger camp sites, important additions have been made and substantial enlargements effected which will enable the camp sites to accommodate many more persons than even before.

At the Sharp Bridge camp site, for instance, between Schroon Lake and Elizabethtown, on the main New York-Montreal highway, 20 additional fireplaces have been constructed this year, bringing the total available on this site up to 31. Brush has been cleared out, all litter and debris cleaned up and sanitary facilities provided, and a supply of pure drinking water piped from a brook high up on the mountain side to every part of the camp site.

Additional fireplaces have been constructed at the public camp site just south of Wells in Hamilton county and a water supply is being installed. At this site it is necessary to pump water to reach all parts of the camp site and the water supply system should be completed in the near future.

A new public camp site, with 10 fireplaces, has been constructed this spring on the highway between Old Forge and Eagle Bay on the south side of Third Lake. Because of the use of this road necessitated during the season of 1925 on account of road construction on the north side of the lake, it is expected that this camp site will be most popular and greatly used.

The attractive and popular camp site in the Wilmington Notch is being enlarged by the construction of additional fireplaces, the old fireplaces are being repaired and by the middle of June it is expected that this site will be in condition to take care of the many tourists who enjoy using it.

Because of the large amount of traffic between Saranac Lake and Lake Placid, a new camp site containing 25 fireplaces has been constructed this spring along the state road less than a mile east of Maybrook. This camp site is provided not only with fireplaces but also with sanitary facilities and a supply of pure drinking water which will have to be pumped from a well, is now being installed.

Tables and seats for the use of campers and picnickers are being installed at all camp sites, which will add greatly to the comfort of persons using these sites.

Costly Funerals

History shows the lavish expenditure of public funds when royal funerals were held in European countries. The most expensive funeral in modern times was that of old Emperor William. It cost the city of Berlin $430,000, and the imperial treasury expended in addition, the sum of $550,000.

The most expensive funeral in the history of England was given the duke of Wellington, the cost being one-half million dollars, while the funeral of Queen Victoria cost $175,000 and that of King Edward cost England $200,000. In comparison with these heavy costs the recent funeral for President Ebert of Germany gives a picture of thrift, the total cost being slightly less than $50,000.—Ohio State Journal.

Odd British Industry

"Drudging" is a recognized industry in English ports. The professional "drudger" with the aid of long and specially constructed poles called "bitchers," saves coal during the process of coaling ship. The "drudging" fleet, a collection of queer little broad-beamed boats, is to be seen at work at all waterside places where ships take in coal or discharge it. A certain amount of coal falls overboard into the river or harbor mud, from which it is retrieved by the "drudgers" who wash it, take it ashore, and sell it to house holders at a low price. Coal "drudging" is a skilled occupation, and one that is handed down from father to son.

Scissors Kick Is Best Stroke

Leaves Swimmer in Most Available Position to Rescue Person in Distress in Water.

This is the third in the series of twelve articles written with a view to lessening water tragedies. The fourth will appear tomorrow.

Lesson No. 3.—Best, Strokes for Life Saving Use.

(By Commodore W. E. Longfellow, Life Saving Expert, American National Red Cross.)

(Written for International News Service)

To save yourself, any stroke which you can kick up for a long time with a minimum of strain is best for you; but to save another, one must have a stroke which has an efficient kick that will take the place of the arms which are used to control the drowning person. So while the crawl or trudgeon strokes may be used to go to the rescue, the kick of the breast stroke or side stroke may be needed to bring you back.

I use and recommend the scissors kick, known also as the "North Country kick," for those who wish to be able to save life. Lying on the back, with chin on chest, the legs are snapped together in a vertical slash instead of a horizontal snap as in the side position. At first it will be a little difficult to get them working properly, but by starting in side position and gradually turning to the back the legs will function properly.

Float Best on Spine.

In the position on the back both hands will be free to cover the ears of the person to be saved and keep the head back and chin high, for the very head carry. It is probably the most difficult, but at the same time the most reassuring position, for after all only the eyes, nose and mouth of the subject need be carried above the water to make him comfortable. The human body is quite like a ship, floating best on the spine (or keel), and if the pilot house (eyes), funnel (nose), and main hatchway (mouth) are kept above water there will be no danger of flooding the carbuiretor. It is bad mechanics to get water in the carbuiretor, whether a human one or a mechanical one.

Swimming on the side using the under arm in a scooping pull near the surface, instead of the customary lifting pull, will give a swimmer the upper arm of the stroke to hold the subject. The hair makes a convenient handle, or a close hold over the shoulder across the chest and under the opposite armpit makes a secure hold. A good hold for a struggling person is the double arm lock, holding both arms under subject by locking the nearer against your and reaching the farther arm with the hand, the patient resting on the back.

Reforestation Sets A New Record

Over Ten Million Trees Planted in State This Spring—Farmers and Private Land Owners Lead in Number of Trees Planted.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Albany, June 1.—Figures compiled by the Conservation Commission at the close of the spring planting season show that a new high record in reforestation was made when 10,971,350 young forest trees were set out in New York state.

A number of orders for trees for spring planting had to be deferred until fall for the reason that the supply of the varieties ordered was exhausted.

How much the movement to make profitable use of idle land by planting trees on it has come to mean to the owners of such land is shown by the fact that farmers and private landowners constitute the largest group that is participating in the reforestation movement. They planted this spring more than 4,000,000 young trees.

Sportsmen's organizations are joining the reforestation movement in larger numbers each year and are acquiring tracts of cheap land for planting. The East Aurora Fish and Game Club planted 16,000 trees in 1923. The success of their first planting led the members to increase their activity and in 1924 they planted 44,700 and adopted a policy of making plantations each year. This year they secured 200,000 young trees from the state nurseries which were planted by members of the club and neighboring farmers who had land available for reforestation. The Broome County Sportsmen's Association in cooperation with schools in the rural sections of the county has started a school district forest and plans to enlarge these each year. This spring the association put out 71,000 trees. The Cortland County Sportsmen's Association has acquired a large farm and began the reforestation of it this spring when 51,500 trees were planted. Sportsmen realize that every acre that is added to the forests helps to increase the supply of game and makes for better hunting by furnishing additional cover for game. A large percentage of the orders for trees classified as miscellaneous came from sportsmen's associations this year and this percentage probably will be larger in succeeding years as more clubs are constantly adopting a policy of making annual tree plantings.

Industrial concerns which depend upon the forests for their raw products constitute the second largest group of tree planters. Several of these have established nurseries of their own for raising planting stock, thereby relieving the demand on the state nurseries, which for the past few years have been pushed to capacity. The St. Regis Paper Company this year planted on its land 1,411,200 trees raised in its own nursery and sold 34,000 trees to private planters. Its nursery has a capacity of 1,000,000 trees, which will be increased to 5,000,000 by 1930, and the planting will proceed at that rate of increase until 10,000,000 trees are set out. This company is planting ninety per cent spruce and ten per cent white pine. Chateaugay Ore and Iron Company this spring planted 1,400,000 trees between Upper and Lower Chateaugay Lakes mostly red pine with some Scotch pine and spruce obtained from the D. & H. nursery at Stief Point and will plant 900,000 more before the end of the year.

From the conservation commission's nurseries the record of trees shipped this spring to various classes of planters is as follows:

Industrial concerns	1,327,000
Municipalities	1,022,700
Demonstrations	634,300
State institutions	212,000
Miscellaneous	427,100
Forest preserve lands	821,000
School districts	23,700
Boy Scouts	31,000
Private land owners	4,162,250

Trees planted in the forest preserve cannot be cut and therefore add nothing to the available supply of lumber and wood. Because of this it has been the policy of the state to give preference to orders from private individuals, municipalities and others to encourage the reforestation of idle land where the young forests will add to the future lumber supply. With an increased appropriation for reforestation work which has permitted the enlargement of the nurseries it will be possible to complete the planting of the forest preserve.

Thought his case was hopeless Rained cleared away pimples in a week

Lexington, Mass., March 3.—I had been suffering from skin pimples on my neck for years and I believe, had tried everything under the sun for them without avail. One day on a friend's advice, I purchased some of your Blemish Ointment and was astonished at the quick results. After a week's constant use, the pimples disappeared completely, leaving the skin clear and fresh. I had thought my case was hopeless, so you can readily see why I was overjoyed at this result. You can be sure that whenever you have one more loyal booster for your product. (Signed) Fred J. Fox, 4 Broadfield St.

NOT "INDOLENT."

One can understand the tendency among modern historians to stress the faults of the great men of the past, for thus the accounts are made more interesting. The reader is brought into more intimate touch with the subject when the latter is shown to be human, after all, in large measure bereft of the trappings of a demi-god. But this can be and is overdone, even when there is but scant basis for the new portrait. Thus H. G. Wells in his Outline of History asserts that George Washington was a "conspicuously indolent man"—an opinion, we may rest assured, with but a very attenuated basis at the best. It is fortunate that Washington's complete diaries are to be published, for, judging from the accounts, these will utterly refute Wells's hasty dictum.

We read that the Council of the Mount Vernon Ladies' Association has completed its plans for the publication of "every known and available diary" of George Washington, beginning with that of 1748 and covering the rest of his life "with few interruptions," the diary of 1789 containing "the last words written by Washington." These diaries, only about one-sixth of the whole being already published, are said to furnish ample proof that Washington's life was one of continuous industry. They can not fail to be highly readable as well as informing, for they are said not only to touch upon things of political significance and interest, but to give an intimate picture of the Colonial social life of Virginia, of the gayety of the legislative season at old Williamsburg, of fox hunting and horse racing, as well as of the daily life at Mount Vernon.

A NEXT-DOOR "YELLOW PERIL."

Mexico faces a "yellow peril" that is matter of concern not to that country alone but to the United States as well. The Mexican press is sounding the alarm against the flood of Asiatics, particularly Chinese, now pouring into the republic through Lower California and the States of Sonora and Sinaloa. The Mexican newspaper, El Universal, is thus quoted:

The Chinese immigrant invasion has assumed in that region appalling proportions. Notwithstanding the restrictions placed upon it, obviously inadequate and poorly enforced, the yellow population is growing rapidly. Chinese have acquired a monopoly of the retail, restaurant and hotel trade, and, thanks to their low standard of living, are competing unfairly with our labor. But this is not the worst part of it. We Mexicans are to blame if we let the Chinese get ahead of us in the retail trade and in the hotel and restaurant business. The worst of it is that these people are introducing the cultivation of the poppy and engaging largely in the opium and liquor trade along the border of the United States. These immigrants come to the country to foment lawlessness. Last and worst of all, they marry Mexican women and debauch the blood of the native race.

From the self-protecting American point of view there may be more unwelcome developments than a flourishing opium and liquor trade along our southwestern border. No small part of this Asiatic "flood" into Mexico is likely to find means to cross into our territory. If our Government can find means to aid Mexico in coping with this problem it will be acting in our own interests.

Instead of less crime news in the papers there should be more, according to Sir Robert Peacock, chief constable of Manchester, England. But he lives in a land of less crime because of more convictions and punishment. If he did business in New York or Chicago he might see no need of expanding the crime news. The American press is kept pretty busy with such news, if for no other reason because there is so much of it to report.

That Body of Yours

SUMMER FOOD.

Someone has said that as variety is the spice of life, warm weather means nothing in the life of that individual who wears light underwear in the winter time.

However, the majority of people make the change, and it seems sensible enough when we remember that heat is the vital factor always.

In the cool weather we want the heat, and in the warm weather we do not want it. Therefore it is getting your own heat supply regulated that is important. And where does all your heat come from? From only one source, that is your food.

Now what I had in mind was that just as when the warm weather comes, you leave off heavy underwear, and put on light underwear, to resume the heavy again with the advent of cool weather, thus adjusting yourself to the heat, so it would seem to be just common sense to go into the matter of the actual heat production in your body.

Thus in the cool weather you turn naturally to oatmeal, butter, fats, pork, puddings, and other heat-producing foods. If, however, you continue these into the warm weather, you are going to feel the heat more keenly, and be subject perhaps to some irritating skin conditions.

And so you turn naturally to other cereals than oatmeal, to fruits, and the various vegetables. And about meat? It all depends upon your work. In general it is wise to cut down on the meat in the warm weather, because the majority of people are even less active in the warm weather than when it is cool.

However, if you really do get outdoors and play or work in the summer, you can eat meat in safety. In fact meat, eggs, peas or beans are almost essential when there has been some real use of the body by work or play. And a good general rule would be to cut down your entire food supply ten or fifteen per cent, because the real use of food to most of us, is just to supply heat to keep the tissues of the body alive and well.

However, do not go to the other extreme and try to do without food in the warm weather. Remember the processes go on just the same in warm weather as they do in the cool weather, and only one thing will keep up the strength of your tissues, your body, you yourself, and that is food. Do not try to cut it down too much, or you will feel weak and languid.

Gestures in Pulpit.

Not Pure Eloquence

A new aid to good preaching has been discovered, a writer in the Christian reports.

During the past summer a suburban church asked a church bureau to send a supply for a certain Sunday. The following Monday the clerk of session called to tell how much the congregation enjoyed the preacher of the day.

"That was a fine man you sent," said he; "the people all set up and took notice. His gestures were great; he swung his arms and certainly sent it home. Can't you get him again for next Sunday?"

The minister was called on the phone and told that the congregation was so well pleased with him that they would like to have him return the following Sunday.

"Well, I'd like to," said he, "but I think I'd like to refuse. I liked the people and enjoyed the service, but there was one thing that did not appeal to me; there were too many non-gesturers."

"If the supreme court should decide that the Oregon law, which would abolish the parochial and private schools in that state is constitutional, it will say that the parent has no control over the child," declared Joseph C. Scott of California at the annual banquet in the Hotel Stalter Tuesday night. The address of Mr. Scott as well as that of State Deputy Daniel A. Tobin of Brooklyn was broadcast from the hall room of the hotel through Station WGR.

Annual State K. of C. Convention

At Buffalo Was Very Successful—Local Knights in Attendance—Talks on Oregon School Law.

Fourteen hundred members of the Knights of Columbus attended the thirtieth annual state convention at Buffalo last week. Those in attendance from Kingston Council, No. 278, were District Deputy Patrick T. Murphy, Grand Knight William B. Byrne and Past Grand Knight John C. Mahoney.

State Deputy Daniel A. Tobin was unanimously re-elected.

The convention was said to be one of the most successful ever conducted in the state. At the convention banquet the outstanding features were the greetings and cooperation offered by the Masons, Jews and Elks.

The K. of C. hospital program was also endorsed. The tuberculosis sanitarium will be for treatment of members of the order. The hospital will be built at Gabriola.

Joseph C. Scott of California gave one of the most forceful addresses of the convention.

School Laws Considered.

"If the supreme court should decide that the Oregon law, which would abolish the parochial and private schools in that state is constitutional, it will say that the parent has no control over the child," declared Joseph C. Scott of California at the annual banquet in the Hotel Stalter Tuesday night. The address of Mr. Scott as well as that of State Deputy Daniel A. Tobin of Brooklyn was broadcast from the hall room of the hotel through Station WGR.

"This is a matter which concerns our sacred selves," Mr. Scott declared. "This is not a Catholic question. It is hardly a religious one. The Communist government across the sea has placed this very thing in its so-called charter of liberty.

"And yet men of affairs, former owners of the sovereign state of Oregon, have stated that the parent has no right. It is pagan, heathen and un-American.

Defends Parental Rights.

"The founders of this government hated slavery and it was finally abolished, but this gospel of communism and paganism cries aloud to you and me. 'You shall have your own babies.'

"We, as Catholics, detest such a spirit. It was for this that the Christians of Rome came out of the catacombs to preach another doctrine. It was this other doctrine that the teachers of the Middle Ages, when the lamp of learning burned with a stronger flame than at any other time in the world's history, that taught the sanctity of the home, parental rights and the position of the family unit as the cornerstone of civilization.

"If the supreme court declares this law constitutional, every other state in the union is invited to follow suit. The non-Catholic loves his child just as dearly as you do, but he needs to be told the exact significance of this law. He needs to have an understanding of just what this thing means.

"But if the supreme court should decide that this thing is unconstitutional what is to prevent the constitution from being changed so that the Oregon law will be constitutional?"

A Serious Matter.

"Don't laugh about the Oregon law. Remember there are 12 states out west, which, combined, have a population only equal to that of your own state of New York.

"Article one, section one of the Constitution was not put in there as a sop to Catholics. It was put in there because Jefferson and the others who wrote that document knew history. People nowadays do not read history, though they could well learn from the stories of the nations that have fallen, their mistakes and frailties, and from them reap profit.

"This article is the American gospel which was riveted into the constitution because Jefferson and the founders of the republic wanted to stop religious intolerance. This thing saved the nation from a state-endowed religion.

"Back of the Oregon law is the gospel of intolerance. During the war there was no protest made against anyone going across the ocean and fighting under the stars and stripes in France because he was a Catholic or educated in a parochial school. Jew and Gentile, Protestant and Catholic passed through the draft boards, and in France their splendid bodies gave up the same 100 per cent. American blood.

"The same types of men who rallied to the country's aid against the enemy without are the same that will rally to oust the enemy within.

Teaching of Parochial Schools.

When I read in "The Southern Oligarchy" by a gentleman named Scraggs of Alabama that there were real crimes in Georgia where the Nordic law fell away, than in any other state, I would like to know, "Is this the crowd that is going to take care of us?"

"The Catholic child is taught to understand the value of a belief in the Supreme Being. The Catholic is taught that when he takes an oath and tells a lie, he is not only committing a crime against the law of man but also against a God to whom he is responsible for every action. He is taught obedience to authority in the parochial school.

"It may be a revelation to some people to know that an assistant to the attorney general who had charge of the sedition work during the war in the northwest, said that out of the 2,250 persons, suspected or accused of treasonable acts during the war in the state of Washington, not one was educated in a private or parochial school. This man was a thirty-third degree Mason.

"This whole struggle in Oregon has brought us back to fundamentals. It is our duty to write a chapter in the history of our country that will make us give thanks to God that we live in this age and generation."

Burdens of Debt Not Always a Handicap

If you were going to employ a salesman and had your choice of a man heavily in debt or one equally capable but not in debt, which would you prefer?

A great corporation recently made a statistical survey of common attributes of several hundred salesmen and discovered the surprising fact that men heavily in debt seem to accomplish more than those without such financial burdens. The explanation is believed to be only partly that, when a man owes a large sum of money, he works hard to get this debt removed.

Still more important is the fact that a man heavily in debt is probably a smart fellow or he wouldn't have succeeded in inducing a bank or other institution to permit him to owe so much money.

This same investigation showed that, while heavy indebtedness may indicate more than average ability, owing a trifling amount of money is almost certain to indicate just the opposite. In other words, any man who can induce you to lend him $5,000 must be downright clever, for he knows of the fellow who habitually owes somebody a mere $50 or $25—from the Nation's Business.

Education Board
Awards Contracts

Dealers Bid on Paper, Text Books, General Supplies and Library Books for Next School Year.

A short meeting of the board of education was held Friday evening at the offices of the board in the high school. Trustees Beeres, Thompson, Betz, Katz, Hayes, Fowler and President Flemming were present. It was the first regular meeting at which Trustee Charles Betz, recently appointed to the board by Mayor Block, has been in attendance.

Several communications were read, among them a request from the Kiwanis Club for permission to use the high school grounds for the aquanqua which the Kiwanis Club backing. On motion of Trustee Beeres, permission was granted. The High School Athletic Association asked permission to use the gymnasium for a dance to follow their entertainment which will be on June 12 at the high school auditorium. The permission was granted and Trustee Van Wagonen and Trustee Fowler were appointed chaperones.

The Prisma Society filed a statement of accounts of the entertainment which was given by the society April, and thanked the board for the room at that time. Trustee Fowler, for the finance committee, offered general vouchers one, two and three for the month of April for entry, also the payroll for May amounting to $25,043.18, and bills for the past month.

The president and superintendent were authorized to make arrangements for both the grammar school and high school commencement exercises.

The supplies committee, which solicited bids for general supplies, paper, text books and library books for the use in the city schools for the year 1923-24, offered several bids for the supplies asked for. All bids were from local merchants.

To William O'Reilly went the contracts for paper for $1,409.43; library books, $583.33; and general supplies, $2,469.35, he being the lowest bidder for these articles.

To A. J. Murphy went the contract to supply text books for $2,690, he being the lowest bidder on that item.

The following bids were received: William O'Reilly—Paper No. 1, $1,409.43; Paper No. 2, $1,330.07; text books, $2,743.65; general supplies, $2,469.35; library books, $583.33.

A. J. Murphy—General supplies, $2,658.40; text books, $2,690; paper, $1,720; library books, $530. Forsyth & Davis—Paper, $1,469.35; general supplies, $2,533.41.

On motion of Mrs. Thompson, the contracts were awarded to the lowest bidders and the first grade of paper bid on by William O'Reilly was accepted by the board as it was of better quality than the cheaper grade which was offered at a slightly lower figure.

The board then went into executive session. When the board adjourned it adjourned to meet on June 19 on account of the closing of the school year.

ABOUT NOVELTIES THAT ARE IN FASHION

(By Eleanor Gunn.)

Now that the umbrella has graduated—one hesitates to say lifted—from strict utilitarian circles and is carried not only for use but because it is novel and chic, interest in canes seems to be revived.

About New York, during the past week, ever so many women have entered restaurants carrying canes, and not always with blatantly mannish costumes. In fact, the greatest costume interest of the season is to be found in accessories. Canes, tiny umbrellas—with their out-of-proportion handles—novelty gloves, shoes, the vogue of the boutonniere, the eternally varied scarf, fantastic handkerchiefs, amusing animal pins and bizarre bags—all make for so much interest that the several silhouettes and the new fabrics do not focus one's attention.

Pervasive Blue Radium Fashions a Two-Piece Frock.

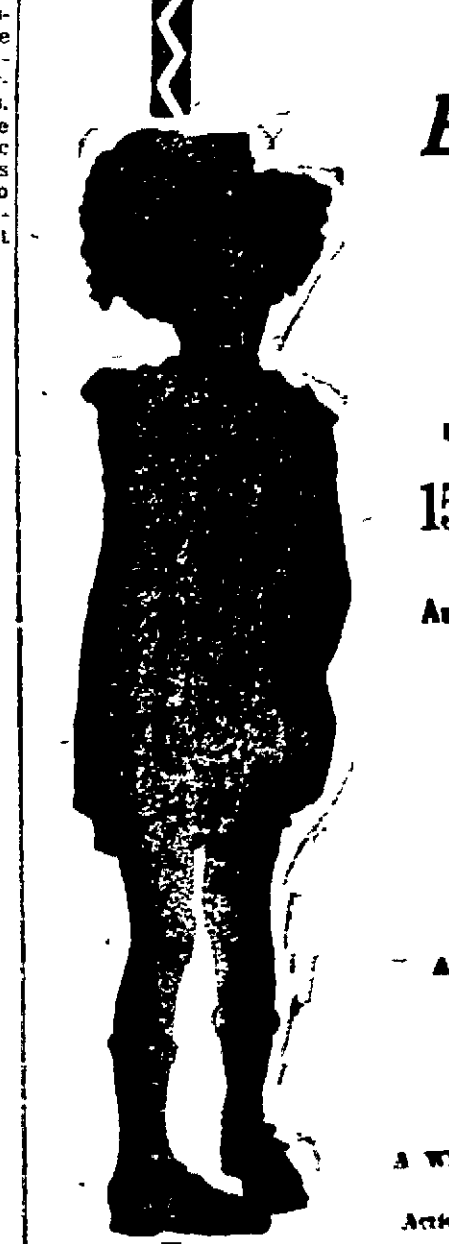

Appropos of novelties, it is predicted that several style creators are mentally following the Prince of Wales, and utilizing the native costumes peculiar to his haunts in designing for the new season. African art is varied and rich in picturesque designs.

Both Paul Poiret and Rodier have tapped, but not exhausted, the Moroccan strains and done many charming things with what the French colony offered in design and in color.

But this is by no means the end of African style richness. It has been definitely established that wherever the Prince goes, goes fashion, and that that which pleases him becomes the rage; so his African trip is sure to be a fertile field for designers.

even if it brings only the turn of a drapery or an interest in beaming jewelry.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER

THE BOY POLICEMAN

He was a splendid boy of about nine years of age. He had straight legs, straight shoulders, clear gray eyes. One of his best friends was a policeman. The policeman was a very busy man, for he stood in the center of the street and directed the traffic. When he held up his hand the automobiles and trucks and wagons all stopped, and when he waved for them to come on, they came on. The boy's name was Richmond, though, "for short," he was always called Dick. The policeman always called him Dick, and Dick always called the policeman Mr. Policeman. Dick had to cross that street when he came from school, and when he went to school, where Mr. Policeman stood. No one was nervous crossing a street where Mr. Policeman had charge of the traffic. Mr. Policeman liked all the boys and girls who came and went to school, and he helped them all across the street. But Dick was his particular favorite. Dick liked Mr. Policeman more than anybody else did, even though the others liked Mr. Policeman so much. Dick quite adored him. Mr. Policeman was so big and so strong. His chest was so broad and so splendid. His face was ruddy and handsome. It was a face that could look so stern when some one drove his automobile carelessly. It was a face that could be all smiles when the boys and girls were to be seen ready to cross the street. Mr. Policeman's arms were so commanding. Every one obeyed Mr. Policeman's arms. One felt so small beside Mr. Policeman. But it was nice to feel small beside so big and magnificent a man. Mr. Policeman was very brave. He had been awarded several medals, but Mr. Policeman never talked about anything fine that he did. Dick was full of excitement one day. His ninth birthday had arrived and he had been given a bicycle. He was anxious to tell Mr. Policeman about it. So when he went to cross the street with the others he stopped a minute longer than usual to whisper to Mr. Policeman that he was nine years old, and that he had a new bicycle. Mr. Policeman told him to wait. He helped the other boys and girls across the street while Dick stood in contact with the traffic stopped at either side. Then Mr. Policeman came back. "You're big enough to direct the traffic for a little while," Mr. Policeman said, "now that you are nine years old."

He gave Dick the whistle that was around his neck and told him to blow it. Dick blew the whistle and waved his arm for the traffic to come forward, and put his other hand in the opposite direction for the traffic to stop, just as Mr. Policeman liked him to do. All the automobiles obeyed him. All the traffic stopped when he commanded them to stop, and came on when he told them to come on. They saw him stand by Mr. Policeman's side. They saw him blow the whistle himself. They saw him, only a boy of nine years, but they obeyed him as he stood by Mr. Policeman's side. Mr. Policeman looked down upon him with admiration in his eyes. "A pretty good assistant, I'll say," was Mr. Policeman's most flattering remark. A few minutes later Dick went on to school, and once more Mr. Policeman took charge of the traffic. But for a few moments Dick had been the one they had obeyed. It had been a pretty good way to begin one's ninth year.

HIGH LIGHTS OF HISTORY

The American Indians by J. CARROLL MANSFIELD

WHEN THE WHITE MEN FIRST CAME TO THE NEW WORLD THEY FOUND THE LAND INHABITED BY INDIANS.

THE INDIANS WERE TALL, WITH STRAIGHT BLACK HAIR AND HIGH CHEEKBONES.

THEY LED A SIMPLE LIFE IN THE GREAT FORESTS AND LIVED IN WIDELY SCATTERED TRIBES.

THE INDIANS LIVED CHIEFLY BY HUNTING AND FISHING. GAME WAS PLENTIFUL, THE FORESTS ABUNDANT WITH DEER, BEARS, WILD TURKEYS, RABBITS AND FOXES.

ACCUSTOMED TO OUTDOOR LIFE THEY NEEDED BUT LITTLE CLOTHING BUT WERE VERY FOND OF FINERY AND DECORATED THEMSELVES WITH FEATHERS, STRINGS OF BRIGHT BEADS OR SHELLS AND OTHER ORNAMENTS.

THE MEN THOUGHT IT BENEATH THEM TO WORK, SO ALL THE HOUSEHOLD LABOR WAS DONE BY THEIR SQUAWES. THEY WORKED THE CORN PATCHES, MADE THE FIBER, COOKED THE FOOD AND DRIED THE SKINS OF ANIMALS.

THEIR DWELLINGS WERE MERE SHELTERS—A COVERING OF SKINS STRETCHED ON POLES AND CALLED A WIGWAM OR TEPEE. THESE COULD BE MOVED QUICKLY FROM ONE PLACE TO ANOTHER.

A FIRE WAS BUILT IN A SHALLOW PIT IN THE CENTER OF THE WIGWAM. THE SMOKE ESCAPED THROUGH AN OPENING AT THE TOP AND AT NIGHT THE INDIANS SLEPT AROUND IT ON PILLS OF BRUSH OR ON THE GROUND WRAPPED IN SKINS.

SUMMERY DISHES

When the warm days of summer are upon us, we enjoy dishes less heating than the usual main dishes served—of hearty meats and rich foods.

Macaroni Supreme.—Blanch one cupful of macaroni broken into small pieces, put to cook in boiling, salted water to cover and cook until tender. Rinse well in cold water and serve with the following sauce: Take two tablespoonsful of butter, two of minced onions and cook until the onions are soft but not brown, then add one tablespoonful of flour; when well mixed add two cupfuls of milk, add a little at a time, and stir until smooth. Take one cupful of finely minced rich cheese, add to the sauce with a teaspoonful of kitchen bouquet. Reheat and serve hot.

Croquette Rice.—Blanch one cupful of rice in boiling water, then drain. Melt four tablespoonsful of butter in a saucepan, add the rice, two chopped onions, a minced clove of garlic, and stir until slightly colored; add one green pepper chopped, one cupful of tomato soup, and three cupfuls of water; cover and cook until the rice is tender, adding more liquid if needed. When nearly done, add seasonings and serve with roast chicken.

Fish Kaddoo.—Wash and cook one-half cupful of rice in boiling water for seventeen minutes, or until tender. Drain and dry in the oven. Chop two hard cooked egg whites, melt three tablespoonsful of butter, add one-half pound of flaked cooked fish, the rice and egg white. Season to taste with salt, pepper and a teaspoonful of kitchen bouquet, then reheat. File on a hot dish, sprinkle with rice egg yolk and serve.

Fish Fritters.—Mix two tablespoonsful of olive oil, two tablespoonsful of flour, salt, lemon juice, parsley to taste, and one-fourth cupful of water; add two beaten eggs and three-fourths of a pound of haddock free from skin and bones and cut into small pieces. Drop from a teaspoon into hot fat; fry a golden brown, garnish with lemon slices and parsley. Serve very hot.

hence the expression "June the month of the year, especially if the day chosen was that of the full moon, or the conjunction of the sun and moon. They also held that of all the months May was the most avoided, as in that month new life would come under the influence of spirits adverse to happy households. These ancient marriage customs were retained by the Christians of the middle ages, and even today June is considered peculiarly the month for marriage.

Some Suggestions About Crumbs

BREAD is a food that has no waste. It is all food—the one food that we never grow tired of. And the body absorbs it practically complete. No waste anywhere.

Ends of the bread left in making sandwiches can be toasted; make croutons of the crusts.

Save all your bread crumbs for stuffing fowls, for preparing puddings, for making sauce, for crumbing croquettes, fish and meats.

Dry out the left over crusts and remainders in a slow oven until crisp. Then put them through a food chopper or crush finely with a rolling pin between sheets of paper, or pound them in a basin or heavy bowl.

You can keep bread crumbs almost indefinitely in jars with perforated tops.

Valuable Hints To Night Toilers

Radio Health Talk Over WGY Giving Valuable Hints to Night Workers on the Subject of Personal Hygiene

In a radio talk broadcast Friday evening from Station WGY, Dr. C. R. Hervey, District State Health Officer, gave some valuable hints to night workers on the subject of personal hygiene. Dr. Hervey states that owing to the abnormal conditions under which they labor, night workers are subject to definite functional disorders which may pave the way for organic disease.

"While we have no accurate data regarding the actual number of night workers in this state, or in the country at large, we know that it must be great," stated Dr. Hervey. "The list of occupations in which night work is essential is large including factory and mill hands, miners, railroad operatives, policemen, night watchmen, firemen and many others."

"Night workers have peculiar needs and are subject to special dangers. Unquestionably they live under abnormal conditions, turning night into day and day into night. They are often subject to influences which undermine their physical condition and pave the way for diseases not directly attributable to the particular occupation involved. It is true that many continue in night work for years without suffering apparent harm. On the other hand it is also probably true that most night workers gradually weaken under the strain and sooner or later return to day work. The difference is in part due to different individual adaptability but more to the care the worker takes of himself, for night work need not necessarily be detrimental to health."

"The physical effects of night work, if long continued, are about the same in the various occupations involved. The illness which arise are not distinctly those of the individual occupations but include a fairly distinct group of symptoms due largely to various phases of physical exhaustion. The most pronounced signs are nervousness, indigestion and fatigue. These symptoms emphasize the fact that neglect of personal care rather than the work itself causes the trouble."

"Although the primary disabilities resulting from night work are largely functional in character they often pave the way for specific organic disease. Tuberculosis, for example, may have its inception in the physical exhaustion resulting from night work."

"The problem of regular hours of rest is often difficult for the night worker. It is most important that this be solved, for no one is capable of maintaining his health and strength with insufficient sleep. The night worker should be careful to set apart a certain definite period for rest. This should correspond approximately to the usual hours of night rest. Just as few day workers go to bed immediately after the evening meal, so the night toiler may have a morning period of relaxation corresponding to the evening of the working day. However, many difficulties arise. There are business, household and other duties to attend to. There are amusements, the lure of the crowd, and the pleasing instinct to loiter in the sunlight. These pursuits often overlap and cut into the proper bed time hours."

"The sleeping room is often ill adapted for restful repose. Light may not be sufficiently excluded, resulting in what may be termed border line sleep. Ventilation is a difficult problem, especially in hot weather. With curtains down to exclude light the room becomes hot and stuffy; on the other hand with shades up and windows open, light and street noises are likely to disturb the sleeper. The sleeping room of the night worker should be as far away from the noise of the street as possible and then by the use of portable screens the light may be excluded without interfering with ventilation."

"The problem of the night worker's nutrition is equally important. His supper is the family breakfast, their dinner an extra meal to enjoy which he often breaks his rest, and their supper his breakfast; his dinner is the cold lunch from the dinner pail at midnight. The night worker should remember that nothing so quickly disturbs the digestive function as broken sleep. With a proper amount of rest he should as nearly as practicable plan his daily life on a parallel with that of the customary routine of the day worker."

"Preservation of health in these night employments is largely in the laborer's own hands. Many are tempted to pursue both night and day activities, and yield to the constant temptation of social allurements. Those who toil at night should reflect that it is only by the wise regulation of the daily routine, until the habit of such routine is firmly established, that physical competence can be preserved."

NEPTUNE'S DAUGHTERS AND THEIR GAY ATTIRE

(By Eleanor Gunn.)

From every indication, one is led to expect the production of smoked glasses to exclude other radiances than that provided by the sun. What of the blaze of color, and the confusion of design the up-to-date beach scene provides? En masse, the picture is bound to be a riot of color, and we have memories of southern beach scenes to substantiate our claim. Individually, the costumes may be worthy, but after all, there is nothing so real about such a scene. It is rather gay, as befits a summer's day.

Cowdrey is the material which, because of the dimming of its design, quite as much as the frequency with which it is chosen, stands out as of primary importance to those who would be easily clad in beach wear or pajamas. The pajamas woke up, as it were, and took to walking, perhaps in

To Observe Sun Spots

A very small telescope, or even an ordinary field glass or opera glass, will afford the reader a view of sun spots at a time of solar activity. The safest way to observe them is to point the instrument at the sun and focus the eyepiece until a sharp image of its disk, several inches in diameter, is projected on a surface of smooth white cardboard held at a distance of from two to four feet. The spots can easily be distinguished from specks on the eyepiece by noticing that they move with the sun's image. At present we are just emerging from a period of solar calm during which no spots have been seen for weeks at a time. But a new cycle of activity has already begun, and a few spots are beginning to appear. The reader hardly needs to be warned that if he wishes to look directly with his telescope, field glass or opera glass he must protect his eyes with the blackest of smoked glass, as the intensely bright image would otherwise seriously injure them.—By George Ellery Hale in Scribner's.

Oregon Law Unconstitutional

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Washington, June 1.—The Oregon school law requiring all children between eight and sixteen years of age to attend public schools exclusively, was declared unconstitutional today by the United States Supreme court.

The validity of the law was attacked by the society of Sisters of the Holy Name of Jesus and Mary, a Catholic educational corporation, and by Hill Military Academy, a non-sectarian educational institution. Lower Federal courts held the state law void because unconstitutional. An appeal was taken by the state, which the Supreme court overruled in its decision.

The decision of the court was delivered by Justice McReynolds.

"The inevitable practical result of enforcement of the law will be to destroy these private schools," said the justice. "These schools have long been recognized as filling a lawful need and purpose."

Mystery of Swastika Sign

The Swastika symbol which figures so largely in Japanese decorations is so ancient, that its origin is lost in the mists of obscurity. According to a writer who has made a special study of the subject, the device was found on a "splendid whorl from the third city of Troy (about 1800 B. C.), and it is frequent in Greek vases about 600 B. C."

The symbol appears again on Hindu relics that date back three centuries before Christ, on Mexican and Peruvian relics, and even on relics found in prehistoric mounds in Great Britain. The latest guess as to the origin of the strange device comes from one Harit Krishna Dik, who says he believes it to be "a modification of the mode of expressing the ancient syllable Om, used in religious rites. This—a phobos with square ends—was duplicated, one across the other, to form the Swastika, meaning 'bringer of blessing'."

However that may be, the Swastika has been marked on the walls of the Great Pyramid.

Ruth Resumes Playing Today

Baseball King Not Expected to Hit Home Run For a Few Weeks—Still Weak and Underweight, Famous Player May Help Lewy Team.

Telegraph to The Freeman.
New York, June 1.—No longer an underweight at the waist line nor a player moving at the shoulders, our Ruth will resume the business of baseball this afternoon after several weeks in the hospital and several days on the bench. He will play right field for the Yankees against the champion Senators and in New York, pay force, is looking for an exhibition of parlor magic that will transform the Yankees into a rabbit into a rattlesnake. It probably will not be. Ruth is not the man he will be later in the season. He still is weak and underweight and cannot take the old toe hold at the plate and get away with it. The doctors only acceded to Ruth's demands that he be allowed to play in order to be rid of his querulous pleas for action. His return, in fact, is two weeks ahead of schedule and whether his premature appearance will cause a reaction later, remains to be seen.

The fans will see a younger and cleaner looking Ruth than has been their privilege for ten years. His succession of illnesses, culminating in his collapse at Asheville, N. C., on April 7, seemingly has had the effect of improving his general condition merely at the expense of eight weeks' absence from the Yankees. Barring further complications, at least several years' of activity have been added to Ruth's career as a result of the care and attention he has received.

Many blame the present position of the Yankees—a game and a half out of last place—on Ruth's absence; others contend that time, the great leveler, has been the abiding factor. Probably it has been a little bit of both.

The Yankees, in any case, are almost definitely out of the race and anything Ruth does for them must be for the better. The writer will be surprised if he hits the size of his collar for a week or more.

He will have one thing in his favor. For the first time in years, Ruth will not be shooting at a home run record. He has given up hope of bettering the mark this season and can approach the plate, fancy free, with nothing on his mind but a slug shade.

Perhaps this will send the great man off to a winning start and he may need one. He will replace Paschal, a man hitting over .400 and comparisons might prove more than odious if Ruth fails to hit them quick and often.

Only All Stars Won.

Sunday afternoon the fast stepping Gully All Stars took the Sawkill nine into camp at the latter's field, winning by a score of 16 to 8. The pitching of Cullen was a big factor.

Red Sox Also Bite the Dust

Robins-Deegan Nine Takes First Series Game From Joy-Connors Team in Two Inning Thriller—First Twilight Game Wednesday.

Taking two games from the Doherty Silk Sox on Saturday and taking the measure of the Poughkeepsie Red Sox on Sunday at the latter's diamond was the record made over the holiday by the Colonials. Defeating the Silk Sox was wonderful but snatching a ten inning game from the Red Sox was most appreciable, especially to the Kingston fans who journeyed to the Bridge City on Sunday. The final score was 6 to 5, giving the locals the first game of the series.

For winning this beautiful ball game, beautiful from angles sundry, from the pitching standpoint, Mike Morgan took the credit. Morgan was on the mound for the last three innings and in the pinches he was the goods. In the tenth inning he was extended to the very limit and met the task square in the face. With two on the bags in this frame it looked as if the game was not yet in the bag but for the Colonials had but one run lead. Settling two down on strikes and finishing the third on an easy roller speaks volumes for Mr. Morgan.

In the seven innings Wicker pitched he showed up in good form allowing but five hits. The good pitching accounted in great measure for the victory, but pitching does not win ball games. But one error was chalked up against the fighting Colonials and last but not least four singles off the bat of Coyle put the Colonials in the win column.

Opening the struggle the Joy-Connors combination put over two runs, which might have discouraged some ball clubs but not the Robins-Deegan outfit. These two runs lasted as a two-run lead until the fourth when the locals put over a like number deadlocking the issue. The tie was not for long for the Bridge City nine scored two more in the next making the game decidedly interesting. In the eighth the locals banged out three runs taking the lead for the first time.

The lead was also but for a short time for in the same inning another run was put over again deadlocking the contest. The winning run was put over in the tenth.

The severe test given the local ball club in these games, answers the much mooted question, "How strong are the Colonials?" Great support is expected in the coming games.

The first twilight game will be played at the Fair Grounds Wednesday evening, when the Schenectady Police team appears here.

All Stars Lost To Millerton

Saturday, Memorial Day, the Kingston All Stars lost to the Millerton Buicks by a 5-3 score. It was a pitchers' battle up to the sixth inning when Cragan of Kingston allowed a three base hit by Gaug and a two base wallop by Middlebrook and a single by Silvernail, which netted the home club their first two runs. In the seventh three errors by Sickler, Stumph and Smedes with three singles gave them four more runs.

The All Stars got to Silvernail, the spitball artist, in the eighth inning for eight hits which netted the local club five runs. However, the locals could not seem to overcome the home club's lead.

Cragan had nine strikeouts to his credit while Silvernail had four.

Two Industrial League Games

The Kingston Gas & Electric Company will oppose the Universal Road Machinery Company at the Industrial Baseball League game on Tuesday evening. The gas eaters are confident in capturing the second game this season and forcing the road builders further down the list. The road builders are bracing up their team and will be able to give the heat makers a good run for their money, if they are not able to take home the bacon. Putting all these facts together the game should prove to be a very interesting one and a large crowd of "rooters" for both sides are expected to be present at the Athletic Field at 6:30 o'clock when Joseph P. Long, the official umpire for the league, calls batter up. The Gas Company will probably use Doyle or Van Aken on the mound with Whitaker on the receiving end. Colvin or Sickler will likely get the assignment to pitch for the Universal with Dermody behind the rubber. Wednesday evening, at the Athletic Field the West Shore team will meet the Van Slyke & Horton team. This game should prove a real bit of excitement as both teams are bracing up and sure to take all honors.

MORAN'S BUSINESS SCHOOL.

Positions Accepted by Students—Summer Sessions Announced.

That the students of the Moran Business School, Burgevin Building, corner Fair and Main streets, are playing an important part in the usual spring adjustments of the personnel of Kingston offices, is evidenced by the following report of positions recently filled:

Miss Mary Neenan, a student of the stenographic department, has accepted a satisfactory office position with T. A. Bennett & Sons, groceries and provisions, this city.
Miss Anne Gorham, a graduate of the secretarial department, is supplying satisfactorily as stenographic clerk with the New York Telephone Company, this city.

The Universal Road Machinery Company has engaged as office assistant Ward B. Tongue, a student of the night stenographic department.

Joseph Kelly, a student of the combined course, has obtained a good business position with Dwyer Brothers, 20 West Strand.

William McGuire, a graduate of the combined course, has entered the employ of the Lake Mohonk Mountain House, in the capacity of stenographer and bookkeeper.
Miffred Buddenbaken, class of 1925, is holding a desirable position in the accounting department of the Ulster and Delaware Railroad Company, this city.

Joseph Miller, student of the combined course, has made satisfactory connections with the Cornell Steamboat Company, Cornell building, this city.

Martin Munnally, experienced of the assistant has been engaged by the Ulster Foundry Corporation, 20-40 St. James street, as stenographer and assistant bookkeeper.

The Moran School's free employment department has filled positions of a temporary nature as follows: Ulster County Savings Institution, Valentin Burgerin, Inc., Attorney, Henry Klein, American Legion Campaign Headquarters, S. Cohen's Sons.

Unlike the public schools, which close in June, the Moran Business School maintains its regular schedule of courses throughout the summer months—with greatly increased opportunity for individual tutoring in all subjects. At an other time of year is there equal opportunity for personal attention with its constant, rapid, satisfactory advancement. Special arrangements are made for those desiring part time programs in typewriting and other business branches.

Suggests Detours On Two Routes

Boston and Albany Post Roads Both Undergoing Construction—Division Engineer Suggests Other Routes to Motorists.
The Automobile Club of America calls the attention of motorists to the present situation on the Boston and Albany Post Roads. The State Bureau of Highways now has under construction sections on two of the most important trunk highways leading out of New York city. One of these sections lies between Croton and Peekskill on the Albany Post Road, and the other between Mamaroneck and Rye on the Boston Post Road.

On an average day during the touring season, according to James S. Dixby, division engineer of the State Department of Public Works for Westchester county, 4,500 vehicles will pass through Peekskill over the Albany Post Road, while 20,000 vehicles are using the Boston Post Road through Rye.

While these roads are being rebuilt, the highway contractors are required to maintain vehicle traffic, but with thousands of cars rolling up to these jobs each day, traffic jams are already developing, with consequent delay and confusion. Mr. Dixby suggests that, under the circumstances it would be desirable from the standpoint of the motorist to take other routes.

New York motorists headed toward Portchester, Bridgeport or Boston, may go north through Mount Vernon to White Plains and Portchester, completely avoiding the Rye section under construction. If his objective is Poughkeepsie or Albany, he may turn off the Post Road at Ossining for Pines Bridge and Yorktown Heights, returning to the Post Road at Peekskill, north of the section under repair. These alternate routes will require a few minutes more driving than the Post Roads when in good condition, but they are not longer in time than the Post Road sections with the present traffic regulations.

Financial and Commercial

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
New York, June 1.—The stock market was irregular and generally reactionary today. The influence of the week end holiday was still in evidence. Many of the most prominent operators were absent. There was also a considerable volume of profit taking sales, most of which was well absorbed.

Rumors that the railroad companies were to be more liberally treated in the way of freight rates by the interstate commerce commission induced some buying but interest was not maintained and the rails were inconspicuous for the balance of the session.

Pools were active in a number of the specialty stocks which accordingly were able to advance against the trend of the market. These included United States Distributing, F. W. Woolworth, General Electric.

Attempts to revive to speculative interest in the public utility stocks were without success, though American Water Works and Montana Power were active at record high prices.

Motor stocks were as active as any major group but price trends were somewhat mixed. The Maxwell shares sold considerably higher and General Motors held around top prices. But Studebaker lost practically all of its recent advance, dropping back to 46%.

United States Steel and Baldwin were reactionary, and American Can. after an early spurt, dropped back nearly 4 points. New York Central lost about two points and Mack Trucks 3%. Selling pressure became more pronounced as stocks settled down to a lower price level, and practically every department of the market sold lower in the third and fourth hours than in the first.

A number of automobile manufacturers announced new cuts in prices of popular cars. Commodity prices were steady. Outside markets were inactive.

Gas Is Deadly To Woodchuck

Successful Demonstration of Way in Which Farms May Be Cleared of Pest—Further Information From Farm Bureau.

Two Woodchuck Eradication Demonstrations held by the Farm Bureau at Modena and New Paltz on Thursday, May 28, proved successful both in attendance and in results obtained. M. D. Pirnie, demonstrator from Cornell in charge of the work, used calcium cyanide granules, a chemical which when moistened liberates a deadly gas.

To show members the strength of the material Mr. Pirnie placed a tablespoonful in the mouth of several chuck holes, closing the holes with earth or sod. After leaving the hole closed ten minutes the crowd set to and dug out the hole. In every case they found a dead woodchuck as a reward for their labor. In one instance a mother chuck and six young were found, all sleeping the long sleep. All who attended were firmly convinced of the effectiveness of the material.

According to a statement by Mr. Pirnie, thirty-five counties in the state have a campaign under way to remove the woodchuck from pastures and meadows. They have come to be an economic loss to farmers not only because of their devastating feeding habits but also because of the burrows made in open fields and meadows. Ulster county farmers interested in an effective control of the rodent pest will be given detailed information at the Farm Bureau office.

Shades of Mark Twain!
A patron of the Boston public library writes this to the editor of a Boston newspaper: "The other day while in the Boston library I had occasion to ask an attendant there where on the shelves could be found a copy of 'Tom Sawyer.' Imagine my surprise when she replied, 'Who is it by?' And this in Boston, too."

Colonials Win Two Games From Doherty Sox

Local Baseball Team Repeats Last Year's Stunt Taking Two Games Here on Decoration Day—Deegan Hits Homers—Local Pitchers in Good Form.

In a game that was squeezed between two attacks of the weather man Saturday morning, the Colonials decorated their record with a 5 to 2 win over the fast Doherty Sox of Paterson, New Jersey. The locals coaxed eight hits from Manlove, the Paterson moundman, while Morgan was giving seven.

Although the Sox outfit were only one hit behind the locals they could only push two of their seven safeties across for runs. Braun, the Paterson third baseman, started the action for the visitors in the fourth when he drove the ball over the left field fence. But the visitors were not able to hit again until the next frame when "Paddy" Smith, the Sox's catcher, scored the remaining run through a grounder that got past Deegan and a couple of hits from the bats of Manlove and Borgman.

Start, a Poughkeepsian, who took Fitzpatrick's place at short stop, made the initial punch for the Colonials, making a run the first inning. Two runs, three hits and two stolen bases was Start's record in his first start.

Manlove the opposing hurler furnished Start with a pass to begin the affair. But Start soon became impatient and escaped to second while Deegan was fishing for a pass. Matty soon got his walk and then McCue sacrificed sending Start to third and Deegan to second. McDermott then up, made first on a grounder when Lafeskie made an unsuccessful attempt to throw Start out coming home. Coyle wheeled on the next ball of Manlove's giving it a speedy return to the twirler who threw McDermott out.

The locals got a firmer grip on the ball game in the fourth when McDermott opened up with a two bagger and rode the rest of the way home on Coyle's and Jimmy Morgan's base hits.

It was in the fifth frame when the locals touched a match to the ball game sending it out of the reach of the Paterson outfit. During this inning the Colonials pushed across three valuable runs, two of which were circuit wallops. Start again did the starting act with a hit to right field. Then Matty decided to show Home Run King Lohr how it's done in Kingston and leaned on the next one burying it deep in the starboard horizon. Then McCue, not to be outdone, by even a manager, sent the next one far away from the scene of the ball game in the opposite direction. When McDermott hit the next one it looked like more damage to the Paterson team but Raymond, a fast fielder and met this tough one, putting an end to the rally. Coyle then got out on a fly to left field. But the three runs were enough to win the ball game although the Sox coined three more hits before they gave up the game.

they had the home team licked. Borgman broke the seal for the Sox the first time at bat, with a two-bagger to center field. "Benny" is also all there at the baseball game, for he crashed out three hits, besides showing unusual pep at picking up the hot ones.

Raymond followed Benny's splash with a safety to right field, scoring the basketball star. When Brenn hit the next one Matty threw to Start, putting an end to Raymond's chance to score.

Eschen, the center fielder, started the fourth with a hit to left field. Lohr, the semi-pro home run king, then played his big card and hit the fifth ball of the day to go out of the lot. Two runs in one inning is enough for any visiting team so the local combination soon registered the necessary three outs.

It looked as if the Paterson combination would travel away with the ball game in the eighth inning when Borgman sent a one-baser into right field. Raymond and Brenn each followed with hits and through the next two wallops of Eschen and Lohr they both scored.

The Colonials made what almost proved to be their only try for the ball game in the third inning. Schwab started off with a two-bagger and Schwab was a terrible runman Saturday afternoon, three hits, one a double.

Following Schwab's wallop Russell sent a fly into the first baseman's hands. Start then sent a grounder to his opponent, Borgman, who threw him out at first. Then Matty pulled the trigger on Montgomery's next ball sending it out of the lot for his second circuit hit of the day. Montgomery was so startled over Matty's treatment of his curves that he gave McCue a walk, but when McDermott hit his next one McCue was forced out at second ending the scoring for this inning.

Then came the inning that painted a distressing picture of the Paterson outfit, for during this frame the locals piled up five runs in a most sensational style. Start was tossed out on his grounder to Borgman. Then Matty was let on through the four-balls method. McCue started the excitement with a two bagger scoring Deegan. McDermott's double then sent McCue the rest of the way around. Coyle met the next one and sent it to left field direct-into Lohr's hands. It looked like an easy catch but Lohr got excited along with the pitcher and dropped it. When Morgan drove the next down through second, Kaman, who was running for Coyle went to second and McDermott scored. Then came the bust-up in which the Sox fell behind.

Borgman picked up Robins' next grounder tossing to third and forcing Kaman out. Morgan was scampering around second and Montgomery tried to throw him out, but there was no one to receive the ball but Morgan and he didn't want it and went to third while Jack made sure of second. Then Eschen threw the ball in but it is very doubtful where it was meant to go for by the time the Sox had found it Robins and Morgan had finished their rounds.

The Sox cracked out ten hits to the local's nine but one hit can't win a ballgame when a team gets excited like the Paterson outfit became in the last of the eighth.
